

CALL FOR PAPERS – by September 1, 2004

Send your manuscripts now for the next issue of Summer Academe: A Journal of Higher Education, the only refereed journal that concentrates on research about university summer sessions. Sponsored by the North American Association of Summer Sessions, the Association of University Summer Sessions, the North Central Conference on Summer Schools, and the Western Association of Summer Session Administrators, Summer Academe is published biennially.

Providing university administrators and faculty with recent research, case studies, and information about issues and topics as they relate to summer sessions at colleges and universities, Summer Academe welcomes scholars of different viewpoints, methodologies, disciplines and cultures, and invites the submission of article manuscripts in a variety of areas. The sole criterion for manuscript content is that it bears on summer session administration or pedagogy.

Manuscripts should be prepared according to The Chicago Manual of Style. Authors' names and affiliations should be listed only on a removable title page. Manuscripts may be submitted electronically (scejbal@uiuc.edu) as long as the papers are in MS Word. Or, manuscripts can be submitted in both hard copy and on computer disk to
